

Roald Dahl's James and the Giant Peach...by The Creativity Crew

Here are a few pictures of James and the Giant Peach that 'The Creative Crew' have completed. Papier mache peaches were finally completed after a minor disaster when the first one popped during the making!!

The figures were made from clay, fabric, wire and trimmings. Each member of the club also made a flying seagull to carry the peach over the waves! A full display, showcasing all the glorious work the pupils have done, can be found in the bay window at the front of school.

Fabulously Colourful Willow Work

This work was done by Year 5. They are examples of weavings inspired by autumn colours. Using a range of fibres to create trees on willow frames the pupils created some beautiful, delicate designs. They were incredibly fiddly to make but, as you can see, were well worth the effort. Each tree is unique and reflected the character of the artist who made it.

Do you recognise this person ?

The children have been talking about the style of Pable Picasso's portrait paintings and have used this information to progress to creating their own self portraits!. Their work was then used to translate the images into a 2D collage using a range of materials. Again, not an easy task but since when has that stopped our pupils? I am sure you'll agree that they did themselves proud.

Their work is on display in the main entrance hall.
